Family and Friends of FCCV,

We had a wonderful service last Sunday! Isn't it exciting to be in God's presence? Isn't wonderful to know and to feel that God absolutely adores you? Because we feel loved, we can share that love with others ... and we do! I am so proud of our church for wanting to share the love we feel with whomever walks through our doors!

Sunday's text comes from Luke 9:28-45. Our story begins with Jesus being on the mountaintop praying and Peter, John and James are with him, although they are having a hard time staying awake. While Jesus was praying, he became dazzling white and then Moses and Elijah appeared with him. After descending the mountain, a crowd of people were waiting on him. There was a man in the crowd who begged Jesus to heal his son from "a spirit that seizes him." What a contrast! One day Jesus is on the mountaintop in God's magnificent presence, and the very next day Jesus is confronted with a "demonic spirit" that is controlling a little boy's life. Perhaps you can relate to the highs and lows on life's journey. Come and hear God's word! Let us discern together what God is saying to us through this story.

Worship with us this Sunday! Be our guest! And ... bring someone with you!

Grace be to y'all,
Robin

Prelude to the Preludes

When on the mountain with three of his disciples, Jesus' countenance was changed and his clothes became dazzling white. So I've found a few pieces with titles such as "Heavenly Light" and "Arise Toward the Light" that might apply to His transfiguration. The last prelude is an arrangement of "Be Thou My Vision" and, as a reprise to our last hymn, I'll play "Shine, Jesus, Shine" as the postlude. —James
